House Urges New Bridge At Portland

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31 —The House today unanimously adopted three resolutions designed to bring relief to bridge traffic across the Delaware River in the flood-stricken northeastern Pennsylvania region.

One proposal, approved unanimously by the Senate earlier this week, requests the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to eliminate tolls on the Easton-Phillipsburg, N. J., U. S. Route 22 span.

It asks that passage be made free while flood rehabilitation work continues and until the free bridge at Northampton St., Easton, is restored to use.

U. S. Studies Withdrawal From Japan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 —The United States agreed today to consider gradual withdrawal of U. S. ground forces from Japan as quickly as Japan becomes able to "assume primary responsibility for the defense of its homeland."

The agreement was made known in a statement issued jointly by Secretary of State Dulles and Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu ending their three days of economic-defense talks.

The 1,000-word communique declared there had been a "free and frank exchange of views from the global viewpoint."

It noted agreement that "continued solidarity of the free world is needed to maintain improved prospects of peace."

The communique emphasized a desire by Japan to make cooperation with the United States and the free world "the cornerstone" of its foreign policy.

Carpenter Dies Of Wasp Sting

SMITHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 31 —Robert Evans, 51-year-old carpenter, was found dead yesterday from the effects of a wasp sting.

Jesse Evans, a brother, said the two were working on a house when Robert was stung on the temple. He became ill immediately and went to rest a few minutes in the yard. He was found dead a short time later.

Dr. W. L. Vanhooser said he had known for some time that Evans was very sensitive to any kind of a sting and expressed a belief that death came within 15 minutes after the wasp sting.

Evans had been in good health, relatives said.

Little Man's Charter

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 —The Canadian Bar Assn. Council has taken under consideration a proposal for "a charter of the little man to Canadian courts of justice." It would provide free legal service to all who need it.

118 Homes In Two Towns Cleaned By Mennonites

ANOTHER GROUP OF upwards to 300 Mennonites yesterday continued the tremendous task of cleaning disaster-stricken homes in the twin boroughs of mud and debris.

Leo A. Achterman Jr., assistant chairman of the Monroe County Red Cross disaster committee, said the Mennonites and allied groups have thus far completely cleaned 91 homes in East Stroudsburg and 27 in Stroudsburg.

Achterman said 25 homes in East Stroudsburg and the adjacent area are in "various stages of completion."

About 250 are expected to be on hand again today. Some of the Mennonites have come from as far distant as Ohio, Maryland and Pittsburgh.

U.S. Road Aid Is Available

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31 —Pennsylvania officials were reminded today that the Commonwealth stands to share in a 10 million dollar federal revolving fund to help pay for repairs to some state roads damaged by flood waters.

"The state can apply for a share of this 10 million dollar fund on a matching basis for repair work on flood damage to primary and secondary state roads built with federal aid," said Walter Williams, undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Williams explained the plan at a meeting here today with Gov. Leader and other state officials and three members of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation.

East Borough Seeks Funds For Planning

LONG-RANGE proposals for the betterment of East Stroudsburg will be presented to the Federal Community Housing Administration in Philadelphia Friday when the borough applies for funds to finance preparation of plans for these projects.

J. H. Stoner, borough flood rehabilitation coordinator, and J. Cal Callahan, planning engineer for Morris-Knowles Co., Philadelphia, will outline the borough's long-range plans at tomorrow's meeting with the general manager of the CHA.

Speaking in behalf of Burgess Jesse Flory, Stoner emphasized that, at this time, funds are being sought only for the preparation of project plans, and not for the projects themselves.

Earlier, Stoner disclosed that the borough's long-range plans call for the construction of a sewage system, improved water filtration plant, a garbage incineration plant, future flood protection and emergency housing and street reconstruction.

Meanwhile, Stoner reported that Capt. Keith Comstock, area engineer, Army Corps of Engineers, will work in conjunction with Councilman Roy Lloyd on stream debris clearance.

The Borough Council will meet at 7:30 tonight to further discuss future planning, Stoner added.

Peron Offer Withdrawn

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 31 — President Juan D. Peron said tonight he has withdrawn an offer to resign and has decided to remain president of Argentina.

The President earlier in the day had said he would quit if that would bring peace to his country. His followers had been clearly primed in advance to receive and reject his offer to resign and demand he stay on the job he has held nine years.

After hours of speculation as to whether he really did not choose to remain in office, Peron appeared dramatically at dusk on his familiar Government House balcony.

A huge crowd had gathered to cheer him in the Plaza de Mayo. The crowd waited more than an hour for his appearance.

A small group tried to force entrance through the main door of Government House demanding the right to talk with Peron. Federal police hurled back the intruders and restored order before Peron came on the scene.

Peron earlier had told his followers he would resign if that would pacify the nation.

Fire Doesn't Bother Busy Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 —When the monitor set in an ABC-TV control room caught fire, associate director Jack Manton called to director Sonny Diskin, "Sonny, we're on fire."

"Quiet," the absorbed director replied. "Not now, I'm too busy." A studio engineer did the firefighting.

Cigarette Tax Bill Up For Vote Today

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31 (AP)—The House shouted its overwhelming approval today of a cent a gallon boost in the gasoline tax to finance 45 million dollars in reconstruction flood-ravaged streets, highways and bridges.

Casting partisanship aside, the Senate immediately cleared the way for its final vote on the emergency measure asked by Gov. Leader to aid flood-stricken eastern Pennsylvania.

Lopsided Vote

The vote in the House was 179-6. The only no votes came from Republicans who contended there was sufficient money available from present taxes to pay for flood repair costs.

The House also placed into position for a final vote tomorrow another segment of the flood relief program calling for increasing the four cents a pack cigarette tax to five cents.

Allocation Vote Today

A vote tomorrow also is scheduled on allocating 15 million dollars for flood-hit communities for street and bridge repairs, 30 millions to the state Highways Department for similar work on primary highways and 9 millions for communities elsewhere in the state.

"We refuse to be stampeded (to vote for the gas tax boost) on the grounds of the flood disaster," said Rep. Charles C. Auker (R-Blair). "We feel that every emergency measure that could be taken has been taken."

Auker, who voted against the tax increase, said the 45 millions could not possibly be spent immediately. He said that during 1956 floods that hit central and western Pennsylvania the Commonwealth used existing funds for emergency relief.

But Rep. Anthony J. Petrosky (D-Westmoreland) countered that there wasn't enough gas tax money to meet ordinary road improvement needs let alone attacking the flood emergency.

Oppose New Tax

"It is a misstatement to say that there are adequate funds to take care of highways destroyed by the floods," Petrosky told the House.

Republicans voting against the plan to increase the gasoline tax from five cents a gallon to six were Reps. Auker, Wilmer W. Waterhouse (Erie), Paige Varner (Clarion), James K. Davis (Forest), Maurice Banker (Huntingdon) and Edwin W. Tompkins (Cameron).

In another development, the Senate Education Committee approved for floor action a plan to increase the ceiling on the amount of authority-financed school construction subject to state aid.

The 1953 Legislature froze the ceiling at 425 millions which was met within six months. About 200 millions in school projects have been held up for more than 1½ years.

Under the measure, the ceiling would jump to 625 millions for the 1955-56 school year, to 725 millions for 1957-58 and 925 millions for 1958-59.

Limit School Costs

The bill also would limit the cost of new schools to $1,100 per elementary school pupil and $1,700 per high school pupil.

Water Company Reports Progress, Speeds Construction Of Line Across Pocono Creek

THERE WAS considerable progress on restoration of Monroe County Water Company's pipeline system yesterday, but the BOIL YOUR WATER rule is still to be rigidly followed.

William Curnow, superintendent of the water company, aided by Herman Reese, state sanitary engineer out of the office of District Engineer Bernard Bush, Wilkes-Barre, centered their attention on getting a new line across Pocono Creek at Pocono Park.

Hookup Rushed

This line was completely related and its extension across the stream was completed. A hookup with the line in Pocono Park will be expedited.

Men and equipment used on the Pocono Park crossing will be sent to West Main St. in an effort to get a new line across the Pocono at that point. This line was functioning until a contractor working on a temporary bridge there broke the line twice.

Mr. Reese said experts were working on setting up a chlorinator for application of chlorine to the water at Stokes Mill where water company pumps are now functioning.

Another chlorinator will be set at the new line at Pocono Park.

Tests To Be Made

After a period of heavy dosages of chlorine, tests will be made of the water in every section of the borough. When these laboratory studies are completed and the water pronounced safe, an announcement will be made.

Meanwhile, Stroudsburg Council is still having drinking water —every bit of it carefully tested and treated—trucked in for residents of the borough.

Water Centers Set Up In New Locations

BEGINNING today new locations will be set up for distribution of drinking water in Stroudsburg.

Four small tanks will go into operation at the following locations: one at Rinehart's Diner, one at the borough high school, another at the Beaver House and a fourth in South Stroudsburg at Park and Bryant.

The large tank, until now stationed at Rinehart's, will be moved to Monroe Dairy.

The Stroudsburg water station will be moved from its present location on Monroe St. at the county jail to 705 Sarah St., near the corner of Seventh and Sarah.

Mobile Unit

The same service offered to Lower Main St. residents by a mobile unit will be continued, according to Arthur M. Slee, consultant on public health matters to the Stroudsburg board of health.

In addition to these stations providing drinking water for residents, an out-of-town dairy has continued its offer to provide water in cartons. The board of health and the borough have asked the company for another cartload of this water.

The cartons will be distributed, mainly, to work parties in both boroughs and in isolated areas.

Israeli Troops Blow Up Base

JERUSALEM, Thursday, Sept. 1 —Israeli armor and troops smashed across Egyptian lines last night and blew up an Egyptian military headquarters at Khan Yunis, in the Gaza Strip.

The Israeli army announced the thrust and the Israeli Foreign Office followed with a statement that the attack was a defense move against Egyptian "active warfare."

Israel charged this fighting had made the 1949 Palestine armistice between Egypt and Israel "virtually inoperative."

Armed Force Strength

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 —The Defense Department says the numerical strength of the armed forces July 21 was 2,940,060, an increase of 4,953 from June 30.

Two-Year-Old Sales Tax Expires In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31 —Don't bother to count out those extra pennies in shopping tomorrow—Pennsylvania's one per cent sales tax is dead.

The death knell for the two-year old levy sounded at midnight.

And just as it was born, it went out in controversy.

Republicans, who placed the one per cent levy on the books during the term of Gov. John S. Fine, have been insisting it should be retained at a two per cent rate to balance the state budget.

Promised Veto

But Gov. Leader, who was elected on a pledge to end the tax, is equally insistent that he will veto any such bill if the legislature passes it.

Republicans responded by voting down Leader's proposed substitute for the tax needed to meet a record $1,600,000,000 budget—the classified income tax.

In the two years of its life, the sales tax brought in nearly 125 million dollars. With the rate doubled and present exemptions retained, the levy would conceivably bring in 250 million dollars.

The administration contends that is not nearly enough to balance the budget and maintain essential state services. Leader is asking about 460 millions in new taxes, a reduction from an original demand of 500 millions.

Auto Sales To Jump

Aside from relief from the nuisance of counting out extra pennies, the abandonment of the tax is expected to have some more startling effects on sales of larger items.

Take automobiles, for instance. Buy a car, and the one per cent extra cost is not a small one. With the lifting of the tax, auto sales will likely take a jump upwards.

"I guess a lot of people have been holding off on big purchases in the past couple weeks waiting for the tax to expire," is the way Joseph C. Snyder, director of the State Sales Tax Bureau, put it.

Snyder said there will be no immediate reduction in the bureau's staff of 520 people, most of them auditors.

Returns Due Oct. 20

Returns from retailers must be submitted by Oct. 20 under legislation expected to be signed by the governor before the week is up. After that comes the tedious job of auditing returns.

Body Taken From Stream At Playground

THE BODY of Eugene Floyd Heller, 37, was recovered from a creek running through the East Stroudsburg playground yesterday at 3 p.m.

Resume Task Today

It was the 59th body recovered in the aftermath of the flood. Another flood victim's body has been located near Camp Davis. But efforts to remove this body proved futile during the day yesterday.

Today, according to Dr. Charles H. Rushmore, Monroe County coroner, and State police in charge of the grim task of recovering the dead, equipment will be moved in to aid removal of the body.

The equipment — provided by the Corps of Engineers through arrangement with a contractor — will clear large masses of debris which lie in mounds along the flat land below the site of the washed-out camp.

The Disappearance

Heller lived at 416 King St., East Stroudsburg. He was employed as a mechanic at Mikels Motors Inc.

On the night of the flood — Thursday, Aug. 18—he and his wife, the former Virginia Dalley, were at the home of Daniel Avery on Borough St. in East Stroudsburg. When the flood waters began to rise, Heller said he thought he should move his car.

At that time the car was parked on Lenox Ave. His wife told police later that she pleaded with him not to go out.

Heller left the Avery home. He disappeared and was not seen again. The Averages and Mrs. Heller were rescued from the house next morning.

Car Is Found

Heller's car was found later. The furious current of the flood had swept it against the bing stand on Day St. There was no key in the ignition lock.

The following Saturday, Mrs. Heller told authorities later, she received a penned note at a funeral home used as temporary morgue for all bodies recovered from the flood. The note read: "Virginia: Eugene Heller is in Stroudsburg. He is okay."

The note was signed "Dolly". Mrs. Heller said. On the following Tuesday, after searching in vain for her husband in Stroudsburg and making radio appeals, Mrs. Heller talked with State police. Eugene Heller's name was added to the list of missing.

In the meantime, Mrs. Heller had made a frantic attempt to find the person who had written the note. The identity of the person is still not known.

Services

Funeral services for Heller will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Lanterman funeral home. Revs. Edwin A. Sawyer and William Wunder will officiate.

Full military rites will be provided by the Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee. Visitation will be held at the funeral home Friday from 7 to 9. No place of interment has been decided as yet, the funeral home said.

Heller was born and lived all his life in Monroe County, the son of Floyd E. Heller, Stroudsburg, and the late Florence Stelmer Heller. He was a member of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church and of the CLU club. He served in the U.S. Army in World War Two.

Survivors, in addition to his wife and his father, are a sister, Mrs. Anna Cramer, Dunellen, N. J.; two brothers, Robert and Donald Heller, both of Stroudsburg; a number of nieces and nephews.

The Identification

Positive identification of Heller's body was made through dental analysis and features of the body itself. Dr. Rushmore said. It had been buried deep in the mud of the creek bed.

Attempts to recover the body sighted on Tuesday night will be made starting early today, Dr. Rushmore said, as soon as heavy equipment can be moved into the area.

State police yesterday issued a tentative list of missing persons whose names have been given to them by their families.

Included on this list were the following names: Melvin C. Miller, 37, of 65 Analamink St., East Stroudsburg; Ethel Nevil, 54, of 148 Day St., East Stroudsburg and

Mud Pumps To Speed Cleanup

Council Bans Sight-Seeing In Work Area

STROUDSBURG'S cleanup is expected to pick up speed with the arrival of eight-inch mud pumps—pumps especially designed to clean out muck and silt after it is activated with water.

Corps of Engineers headquarters at the Stroudsburg Municipal building said the pumps are expected soon to augment pumping operations now being carried out by Stroudsburg firemen and other crews hired by Stroudsburg council.

One of the obstacles encountered yesterday was the excessive sight-seeing travel into areas where bulldozers and trucks are loading debris.

Bar All Traffic

Donald Marsh, Pen Argyl contractor who is working under a Corps of Engineers contract, was advised by borough authorities to rope off areas where machinery is working to bar all traffic.

Jim Somers, liaison between council and all operations dealing with cleanup, is in constant contact with members of council where any problems arise demanding councilmanic action. He is also in contact with Corps of Engineers and other agencies involved in restoration work.

Harold E. Snyder, borough secretary, is dealing with all other official matters in the borough.

Work On Sewer Plant

Engineer Edward C. Hess concentrated on cleanup of the sewage treatment works yesterday. Tri-County Constructors, the large firm which recently installed improvements and additions to the plant, is under Army contract to get the plant in primary operation.

Yesterday Hess and the contractor correlated activities so that work to be done by the borough will be completed about the same time the contractor finishes his phase—about five weeks hence.

Joint councilmanic and Stroudsburg Municipal Authority meetings are scheduled ahead of the regular council meeting this month.

Israel Holds Off On Truce

JERUSALEM, Aug. 31 (AP)—Israel today held off agreeing to an immediate cease-fire on the Gaza front until Egypt replied to its demand that the Egyptians acknowledge responsibility for starting the violence.

Egypt agreed yesterday to a cease-fire beginning at 6 p.m.—noon EST—today. The Israel Foreign Office tonight called this an "obviously deceitful announcement" and declared Egyptian raiding parties "still are roaming the country sowing death and destruction."

The phrasing of the cease-fire proposed by the United Nations apparently aroused the Israelis. A government spokesman here said it put "Israel, which was being attacked and invaded by terrorist bands, on the same level as Egypt, which is the attacker."

Proposes Halt

Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of staff of the U.N. Palestine truce observers commission, proposed the halt to the pitched battles, bombings, infiltrations and ambushes along the Gaza frontier.

A U.N. spokesman said Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett's government replied last night to Burns' proposal with a demand that Burns get Egypt's acknowledgement of responsibility for the past week's outbreaks of terror. A letter setting forth Israel's views was signed by Arthur Lourie, deputy general of the Foreign Office.

A later U.N. announcement said Israeli authorities, in view of further border incidents last night, "were doubtful of whether to accept the (cease-fire) proposal," and it was stated the final decision would not be made until the morning of Aug. 31.

Await Reply

The Israeli spokesman took exception to this announcement, saying Israel's answer was contained in Lourie's letter.

"We are now waiting for Egypt's reply," he added. With Egypt and sister Arab states blaming Israel for the attacks, it was regarded as highly unlikely that Egypt would acknowledge itself the aggressor.

Club To Sponsor Benefit Dance

POCONO PINES—Pocono Lions Club is sponsoring a dance for the benefit of the Monroe County Flood Fund.

The dance will be held Tuesday night, Sept. 6 at Harry Eberhart's Boia House at the upper end of the lake at Pocono Pines. Vince Costanzo's orchestra will provide music without charge.

Additional Survivor

THE NAME of one of the survivors of Ira DeHaven, a flood victim, was inadvertently omitted in the account of his burial provided to this newspaper by the funeral director. The omitted name was that of Ira DeHaven Jr., of East Stroudsburg, a son.

West End Fair Held At Gilbert

GILBERT—The traditional West End Fair opened here yesterday morning.

Exhibits of fresh fruits, flowers, canned goods and poultry lined the shelves in the main halls on the midway. In the large, open-air buildings to the rear of the fairgrounds, a large number of dairy cattle, sheep and other vocational agriculture entries were shown.

Judging in the major events began at 9 a.m. Most of the judging was completed before noon.

Fair officials indicated the annual show would be a "success" even though adverse weather conditions during the Summer had seriously curtailed crops in most Monroe County areas from which exhibits generally come.

No estimates of attendance were available last night.

Bridge May Be Opened This Weekend

IF ALL goes well, the temporary span replacing the State bridge between the two boroughs will be reopened by the weekend, a State Highway Department spokesman said last night.

The temporary bridge being erected had been in use in Williamsport since 1946. It carried Route 220 over Lycoming Creek, replacing a bridge that was washed away by flood waters. A new bridge has been erected on the old site.

The highway spokesman said the main roads should also be open and shoulders repaired by the long holiday weekend.

Meanwhile, he reported that temporary bridges have been completed on Route 12 between Bartonsville and Snyder, and on Legislative Route 634 between Swiftwater and Paradise.

Legislative Route 171 will be reopened from Swiftwater to Pocono Manor at 9 this morning, he added.

The John Transue home from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday and the Pocono Alps from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Answer Given By Listeners

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—The speaker in a Russian-language repeat of the Mutual Broadcasting System's Lutheran Hour, beamed into Soviet territory, heatedly shouted:

"And those who believe in what I'm talking about can say, 'Amen.'"

Within a week, according to the network, 107 unsigned cards, posted in the Soviet Union, were received at the program's West German address. All bore the single Russian word for "amen."

Residents Must Register For Home Cleaning

IN THE LOWER Main St. section residents are asked to register their names with the information center at the Stroudsburg Motor Supply Co. at Fifth and Main if they want their homes hosed-down or live steam used in the home.

Before either of these jobs can be done, however, the cellar of the residence must be cleaned out, according to the borough board of health.

Beauty Shops Closed Until Safe Water Is Available

STROUDSBURG BOROUGH Board of Health last night ordered all beauty shops in the borough to cease operations until a safe water supply is available for their use.

The step was taken, the board said, to prevent use of tap water for shampooing and other hair-dressing services. The text of a letter being sent to beauty shops in the borough follows:

"As per press releases within the last few days, the water presently in the Stroudsburg mains is unfit for beverage purposes and its introduction into any of the body orifices such as mouth, nose and ears might lead to serious infection.

Protection Of Health

"For this reason, in the interests of protecting the health of the citizens of the borough, we have recommended that it be not used for purposes of taking shower-baths, shaving, shampooing and other operations in the region of the head.

"It is understood that many beauty shop patrons have volunteered to take their shampoos at home. However, this does not eliminate the dangers above referred to and heads so shampooed will be dangerous to the operators as well as the patrons.

"Inasmuch as most of the operations of a beauty shop require wetting of the head and the hair, copious rinsing, etc., it is necessary to direct that beauty shop operations cease until such time as a safe water supply is available to them."

Expenditures For Long Range Planning Cheaper Than Costly "Mistake" Projects

The municipal movement toward retaining qualified planning consultants here in the wake of the flood disaster is sound and should be fully exploited before any commitments are made to spend any sizeable sums on rehabilitation and restoration beyond absolute necessities.

It is certainly a very obvious truism that it is wiser to spend $10,000, or whatever is required to retain a consultant and create a sound planning program to be sure your plans are right on a long-range basis than it is to spend even as little as $20,000 on an improvement that in time proves to be a mistake.

East Stroudsburg council has moved directly along the lines of long-range planning with a competent consultant. But, as we said yesterday, there are so many facilities which could possibly be integrated on a regional basis, that with only one section planning that fashion the maximum in achievement, for the longest and best service at the cheapest expenditure cannot be achieved.

Flood damages centering in and around the Stroudsburgs, and damages in Barrett and adjacent townships, are going to cost those municipalities a great deal of money.

It should be money well spent, not haphazard or by-guess outlays of the taxpayers' cash. And we say that with full knowledge that these municipalities have their engineers, their consulting engineers for specific problems.

A planning consultant, operating on a regional basis, provides the sound check on the work of other engineers and engineer consultants so necessary on problems of the magnitude and lasting effect facing the people and municipal bodies of the flood areas.

Americans Show Response Of Sympathy To Red Cross Disaster Relief Works

Americans have often been accused of being soft-headed because they are so soft-hearted, but we believe the accusation is not well founded and that this evidence of wordly cynicism on the part of other nations is not a becoming attribute.

This came to mind as we read the reports of the amazing albeit expected response of the American people to the appeal from the American Red Cross for funds with which to alleviate the suffering of those countless families caught in the recent flood disaster.

With one accord, it seems, old and young combined to assure prompt fulfillment of the requests, and from every part of our broad land checks poured in to local chapters and the national headquarters in Washington.

This mighty flood of money, resembling in its rushing golden torrent that lethal bank of water under which many a home and factory disappeared a short week ago, will assure that nothing be left undone by the Red Cross in the rehabilitation of the homeless and destitute.

At the same time it assures uninterrupted maintenance of a Red Cross fund whereby that great humanitarian organization continues in a state of readiness for whatever unscheduled disaster the future may bring.

Here in the Pocono Mountains area it has been heart-warming to observe the manner in which all ages and all groups of our citizenry rallied at once in response to the appeal.

Labor and management, clubs and organizations great and small, lowly individuals and those more blessed with this world's goods, offered their contributions commensurate with their ability, and in many cases far beyond what might reasonably have been expected of them.

Truly a response of sympathy.

George Sokolsky Says...

Citizens Concerned Over Lack Of Choice In Selection Of Candidates For President

In the past session of Congress, seven resolutions were introduced proposing constitutional amendments changing the method of electing the President and Vice President of the United States. What it all comes down to is that there seems to be an excitement about having a more direct election of these officers.

The main objection to the Electoral system is that an unfair discrimination exists whereby the "individual voter in New York State has fifteen times the vote-power in Presidential elections as an equally important individual citizen in Delaware."

Personally, I cannot get excited by the arithmetic. What is causing the citizen profound concern is that he actually does not have much choice in the selection of a President. He is given two names, selected by a small group in each party, and he has to vote for one or the other or not at all.

Let me recount the inside story of the Wilkie nomination as an example of what actually happens. But before I go on with the story, permit me to make the point that every once in a while, I read a letter from someone calling attention to an error of fact in an article in this column, the error being that the letter-writer never heard of the matter to which I refer, while I am recounting what is to me a personal experience because I handled the matter personally. I was once associated with the National Association of Manufacturers and at that time a group of big business men decided that they had to find a candidate to defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt and that the ordinary Republican would not do because he could not get elected. So, Wendell Wilkie, This was highly Commonwealth and Southern, who had come up from Ohio, was studied as one of several prospects. He believed in private enterprise and was a top-notch public relations man. So they decided to test him out and they got him on a session of the Town Meeting of the Air, where he did a splendid job. Now, I am not talking from books because I worked on that job along with some other wordsmiths.

So Wilkie made good and a special organization was established and duly financed to mobilize American business in every town in the United States for Wendell Wilkie. This was highly camouflaged and its existence is still denied, but I was there. So the denials make no impression upon me. I know a lot of people who were there.

So all of a sudden, this comparatively obscure man, who had been a Socialist at college and a registered Democrat in New York, and who got his job because he was a Democrat, was put over as a colossal tribute of the people, who would defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt. (Incidentally, and this can be checked, some of these business men contributed to Roosevelt as well as to Wilkie.)

I cite this example because I personally witnessed this organization in its early stages and then voted for Roger Babson to save my conscience. And many unbelievable incidents related to this effort came to my mind whenever I think of a free election and the free choice of the people.

The question of political responsibility and the political growth of the individual leader is really more important than the amendments I see before me. Take for instance, the nomination of President Eisenhower. The leader of the Republican Party was Robert A. Taft, but Eisenhower, an outsider, was nominated because the inner group in the party, this time the same business men combined with the Dewey machine, felt that Taft could not be elected and that Eisenhower could be. And Eisenhower was elected. But what of party responsibility?

There are some in this country who no longer believe in party responsibility and who are leading us, step by step, toward government by personal popularity. The parties are losing the reason for existence, except as vehicles of election. Yet experience shows that the two-party system, operating on principle, and led by men of political responsibility as in Great Britain, produces an efficient, competent type of government for a free people. How to re-establish that kind of political responsibility in this country is really our most pressing problem.

Stroudsburg, in a crisis such as we have faced and still face, is without adequate bus transportation. It is especially unbelievable in view of the fact so many people have lost their cars in the flood.

But, believe it or not, the unbelievable is true. There is no adequate bus service between the Stroudsburgs. I am fully aware the bus line operator is operating taxis—but what's the cost of a trip between the borough during these rough times when people have lost their cars, some of them their resources. It's a lot higher than the old fee, and even though the distance is greater, but keep in mind most business in the borough are not even making expenses after having given selfishly during the emergency. Few are even coming close to making a profit.

The issue here becomes even more serious when one realizes the operator in this instance has a state-granted franchise. Certainly the authorities of both boroughs should investigate this situation and take appropriate action.

Restoration Of Trust With Russia Important

How long does it take to restore trust between nations after it has been shattered?

I don't know, but that's how long the cold war will last, official statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

And I would bet it will be a good deal longer than the Messrs. Bulganin, Khrushchev and Molotov can keep those unaccustomed grins on their faces.

Restoring mutual trust between the Communist world and the non-Communist world will be an even slower process than it is in most cases because it involves achieving simultaneously two different kinds of trust.

The kind of trust we hope to see re-established between us and the Russians someday is based on moral and ethical grounds. We look forward wistfully to a time in the future when the bosses of the Kremlin will deal fairly and decently with other governments, fulfilling their promises and obligations even when it hurts.

It will be all right to sit down while waiting for that happy day, for it isn't likely to come upon us suddenly.

The Communists, on the other hand, take no stock in morals or ethics, which they regard as sentimental aberrations of the weak and fuzzy-minded. Fairness and decency have little meaning against the background of their philosophy. They put their money on cold logic and expediency.

The kind of trust they may hope to see re-established between them and us is based on a materialistic situation—a situation in which, if they credit us with what they would consider sound intelligence, it would not be to our advantage to interfere with whatever plans they have in mind.

That isn't likely to come about as long as they have reason to believe we are stronger than they are. Or as strong.

And we are likely to remain as strong as they are, or stronger, as long as we keep our heads in gear.

So it is hard to see how the re-establishment of mutual trust that would permit an end of the cold war between the Communist and non-Communist worlds can be achieved unless the Communist philosophy undergoes some radical changes.

Trying to find a common denominator in the philosophies of Communism and Freedom is like trying to add apples and pears. No matter how you juggle them around you've still got apples and pears.

The best hope for an end to the cold war is that the people of the Communist world eventually will get fed up with Communist bosses and boot them out. And that's no near thing, either.

The average Russian or Chinese is not as much like the average American as wishful thinkers would have us believe. But he probably shares the same private aversion against getting his head blown off. So if those fellows ever reorganize under new management the chances are we can make a deal.

The new maid looked mighty fancy, so Mrs. Jones thought it the better part of wisdom to warn her. "Remember, Gwendolyn, you're not to wear jewelry when you serve my guests this evening."

"My trinkets are hardly worth wearing," said the maid modestly, "but thanks anyhow for the warning."

A brash hotel operator in the Catskills, reports Hy Gardner, labeled a home-made summer revenue at his hostelry. "The Borosch Years of Your Life." A dyspeptic critic did not share the operator's enthusiasm for the production.

"Borsch, my eye!" wrote the critic. "He should call it, 'The Worst Years of Your Life!'"

"Everybody admits," boasted one of the town's most notorious barflies, "that my capacity for highballs is virtually unequalled. Eight-count 'em, eight." Then his voice fell a decibel or two. "Unfortunately," he added, "I keep passing out before I reach for the fifth."

Atomic Waste Disposal Becomes Grave Problem

Washington, August 31—More and more you are going to hear a lot of worried discussions about another terrifying problem that is surging to the fore in the rapidly unfolding atomic age.

This latest and increasingly urgent problem is how to safely dispose of atomic waste materials—which in some ways are even more deadly than "fall-out" radiation.

Everyone has heard about that fearsome menace. But so far, only the scientist and those directly interested in developing the industrial, medical and other peaceful uses of the atom, are acutely conscious of the enormous and dire complexities of the task of safely disposing of the potentially huge accumulations of lethal waste materials resulting from those processes.

Solving this grim problem presents a vicious circle: The more numerous the atomic developments, the greater the amount of deadly waste and dangers and difficulties in getting rid of it safely.

Important congressional, state and business authorities have become so concerned about this crucial problem that they favor turning it over to the U. S. Public Health Service. They want to take it out of the hands of the embattled Atomic Energy Commission.

Reason for this extraordinary backstage proposal is the Commission's apathy in this matter. Members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee have been told this indifference is due chiefly to AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss. He is credited with the view that the waste problem is "not of immediate moment."

Backstage Hassle—At the recent atom-for-peace conference in Geneva, the overwhelming weight of scientific opinion was directly counter to Strauss' reputed attitude.

Some of the most significant studies presented at this historic United Nations meeting dealt with the constantly growing peril from nuclear waste and the pressing need for devising effective disposal measures.

These distinguished pronouncements made a deep impression on the Joint Committee members who attended the conference.

At a subsequent informal Committee meeting in Washington, there was general support for the suggestion by Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), chairman, that a study be made of possible legislation on this matter at the next session of Congress. The Committee's staff experts have been directed to do this.

cent record-breaking run at the Latin Quarter, and thrice on Saturday, comedian Joey Adams had the enviable task of introducing the lovely show girls who cavorted around him in costumes that left little to the imagination.

One of the most striking of them was a tall, brownish blonde with a long slender figure plus all the proper architectural accoutrements whom Joey announced as Rosemary Ridgewell.

"And now comes Rosemary Ridgewell," he would declare. "Rosemary is a society gal from Florida. She is well reared. Also in front it's a good idea."

Now I did not disagree with Joey's description of her charms, but somewhere in the dinner recesses of my mind (which is plenty dim at that) there was the idea that Rosemary's background was not Florida and not social, but much more interesting and exciting indeed.

So I consulted my private dossier in which are recorded the loves and lives and secret pasts of all the babes on Broadway and found a file on today's delectable subject.

If Rosemary had been doing what she does today, in the same spot a quarter of a century ago when it was Ben Marden's glittering Palais Royale, she would be dripping in gems and sables. Though she isn't going too badly today either.

In those fabulous days featured Broadway show girls like her, who wore as little as the law allows, never came to work by subway; they were delivered and called for by chauffeur-driven Rolls Royces. But I don't see Rosemary hoofing either.

Central Flood Planning

—by H. G. Heller

In analyzing present flood control policy in this county, two leading scientists, long members of the U. S. Geological Survey, find it easy to understand how the expanding magnitude and the inter-state nature of flood control works have led inevitably to federal direction. There is continuing need, in their opinion, for broad-scale co-ordination, planning, and engineering that only the central government is equipped to render.

These conclusions are reached in a heavily documented volume entitled "Floods." In describing how floods start and gather momentum, the damage they inflict, and what man can do to adapt to them, prevent them and protect himself against them, the authors, William G. Hoyt and Walter B. Langbein, outline the judicial and legislative framework involved. Their comprehensive report, published last spring by Princeton University Press, becomes particularly significant in light of the recent hurricane-flood disasters.

There is no specific provision for the control of floods, retardation of runoff or prevention of erosion either in the Constitution of the United States or in amendments thereto, the authors report. On the other hand leading decisions by which the constitutionality of federal action on the broad front of flood control has been determined leave little doubt that the Constitution "provides full authority to carry on flood control and related operations under the powers delegated to Congress to regulate commerce, to control public lands, and provide for the common defense and general welfare."

The Supreme Court has set forth clearly the power of Congress to legislate in the interests of flood control and regulate activities on the ground that anything that benefits navigation affects commerce, the volume continues. Also, in 1950 the Supreme Court stated in the Grain Processing case (United States vs. Grain Processing Co.) that "the power of Congress to promote the general welfare through large-scale projects for reclamation, irrigation, and other internal improvements, is now as clear and ample as its power to accomplish the same result indirectly through resort to strained interpretation of the power over navigation."

Thereafter, her sole ambition was to return there as a full-fledged warbler. After more study she was accepted for the singing chorus of "Brigadoon." She backed out when she found it was for the road company, because what did she want with the whistle stops having but recently come from one named Minneapolis?

Returning heart-broken and dejected from the Ziegfeld Theatre, she passed Carnegie Hall and wondered if she'd ever make it. While she was standing there and gawking, an assistant manager pulled her in and put her to work as an usherette which anyway allowed her to hear the greats of the music world during the recital season.

That's when she decided to go out on her own as a thrush, even if only in a saloon. She heard they were casting for a new show at the famed Latin Quarter. She went there and asked for an interview with the fabulous Lou Walters.

Stroudsburg Marine, Home On Leave, Plays Important Role In Post-Flood Operations

CHERRY POINT, N. C., Aug. 31—While his fiancée acted with a summer stock company in Bushkill, Pa., a young Leatherneck from this Marine Corps Air Station played a starring role in a real-life drama as it unfolded a short time ago in his hometown, Stroudsburg, Pa.

Going home for the weekend, Pfc. David W. Riley anticipated a quiet, enjoyable visit but soon found that things were far from normal. Spurred on by radio reports of the flood raging around his hometown, he arrived there early on Saturday morning, Aug. 20.

Mother Stranded

In Stroudsburg, he learned that his mother had been stranded in Bushkill while visiting her sister and that his fiancée was still there with the theater company. He could not reach them at once, but later managed to bring them both out to safety.

Joining the rescue workers, Riley soon made himself indispensable. The Civil Air Patrol authorities, with which he was working, wanted him to remain in Stroudsburg until the worst of the flood had subsided. However, his liberty was due to expire the following Monday morning, Aug. 22.

An official of the CAP contacted Riley's commanding officer, Maj. Harold K. Hall, who granted a three-day leave to Riley.

Services As Dispatcher

During his leave, Riley acted as dispatcher for three Marine helicopters which were sent from Quantico, Va., to assist the flood victims. He directed the helicopters to make airlifts where the situation was most urgent and handled the requests for helicopter aid.

The copters lifted survivors and sick and injured to the Monroe County General Hospital. They also carried food and other supplies to people cut off by flood waters. On other flights, too numerous to recall, the Marine choppers carried the bodies of flood victims to points where undertakers could pick them up.

Thursday morning, Aug. 25, Riley's leave expired and he returned to resume his regular duties here as an aviation storekeeper in the shipping and receiving section of Marine Wing Service Group 27, Second Marine Aircraft Wing.

Home On Dreher Ave.

A graduate of Stroudsburg High School, Riley entered the Marines last year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Riley of 1222 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Bangor Area Parents To View School

BANGOR—Bangor Area Jointure School directors are inviting parents of school children to inspect Roseto's Columbus School from 7 to 10 p.m. next Tuesday.

This fall will be the first time that the building will be fully used since completion of the six room and auditorium addition in 1938.

A bus will pick up parents needing transportation at 7 p.m. at the McKinley School; 7:10 p.m. at Lincoln School and 7:15 p.m. at Roseto School.

Fifth, Sixth Graders

Parents will be shown the newly-reddecorated room that will house all of Bangor's and Roseto's fifth and sixth graders in a move designed to free Bangor's Lincoln building for use by the jointure junior high students. This will relieve overcrowded conditions at the high school.

They will also be shown the newly-decorated kindergarten which was made necessary by increased jointure enrollment and the addition of a group from Washington Township this year.

A basement room to be used as a cafeteria by the fifth and sixth graders also will be shown. The cafeteria will be in charge of Mrs. Michael Altieri.

Kiwanis Club Gives $1,000 To Red Cross

THE STROUDSBURG Kiwanis Club officers and directors at their meeting yesterday afternoon voted to donate $1,000 to the Red Cross disaster relief fund.

Kiwanis clubs generally are co-operating with the local group in donations of money, clothing, and furniture. Letters are received asking what is needed most to help out in the emergency following the disastrous floods of Aug. 18-19.

Rehoboth Beach, Md., club sent a check for $200 and Boonton and Morristown, N. J., and West Chester clubs $100 checks each, it was reported.

Letters offering assistance were received from Metuchen, Washington and Manassas, N. J.; New Richmond, Ohio; Garden City, L. I. and Olney, Pa. Some of them also stated they would send money.

The Pennsylvania District office at Lock Haven informs the local club they are receiving many inquiries from clubs as to how they can help out in the emergency. The cooperation of outside cities and towns is marvelous, officers of the district office said.

Fat Girls Lonely?

Stock Prices Push Upward

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—The stock market decided to move up again today after two days of hesitation following last week's rally. Steels led the way in an upturn which affected nearly all major groups. Aircrafts added to their gains of yesterday when they were the stars of an otherwise sluggish market.

Gains ran to around 3 points while most losses were in fractions.

The market was somewhat broader than yesterday's and trading was more active although still below the two-million-share level.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.00 to $175.40, with industrials up $1.90, rails up 70 cents and utilities up 10 cents.

Parish Distributes $1,000 To Flood-Stricken Families

TOBYHANNA—St. Ann's Roman Catholic parish here contributed and distributed $1,000 last week in emergency relief to flood stricken families in South Sterling, Newfoundland and Greentown areas, Rev. G. J. Jordan, pastor, said yesterday.

Of the total $580 was given in a special collection last Sunday in the four mission churches of the parish. Father Jordan yesterday expressed his gratitude to his parishioners who contributed and for $25 given by St. Rita's Church choir in Gouldsboro.

Father Jordan said survey of rehabilitation work shows about 25 families need about $500 each for a start.

St. Mary Magdalene Church at South Sterling, although surrounded by swirling flood waters, was not damaged. Three cottages a short distance away were swept downstream.

Praises Depot, Pilots

Father Jordan had high praise for the rescue work and feeding operations instituted by Tobyhanna Signal Depot and pilots of helicopters flying out of that point.

He said among the unsung heroes of the Newfoundland, South Sterling, Greentown regions were Dr. Frank Urdel and Major Robert Schafer.

Despite the flood problems, Father Jordan said the top of the Poconos area is attracting many vacationists. Most of the flood damages, he noted, occurred in low lands off the plateau area.

Mrs. Ramble, Bangor, Dies

BANGOR—Mrs. Laura M. Ramble, 74, widow of Martin L. Ramble, died at her home, 123 Market St., at 1:20 p.m. yesterday after a long illness.

A life-long resident of Bangor, Mrs. Ramble was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. Bonny.

She was a member of Bangor Methodist Church and the Dames of Malta.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Florence Mitchell, Bangor, and Mrs. E. R. Derr, Portland. She also is survived by three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday with Rev. W. L. Hackman, pastor of Bangor Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in St. John's Cemetery, Bangor.

Fly Swatter Use Urged

THE OLD FASHIONED fly-swatter should be called into action right away, a health official said yesterday.

Arthur M. Slee, Stroudsburg board of health consultant, urged all borough residents—and those of the county—to begin swatting flies constantly. The more flies you kill, the less disease-carriers in your home, Slee pointed out.

The war on insects is also being carried out by portable tank spraying units manned by U. S. health officials. But spraying does not reach all areas and will not kill all the flies.

In the day-to-day fight against insects, the fly-swatter may be your best and most effective weapon, the board of health pointed out. Get a fly swatter—and use it!

Are you giving your children too many "empty" energy foods?

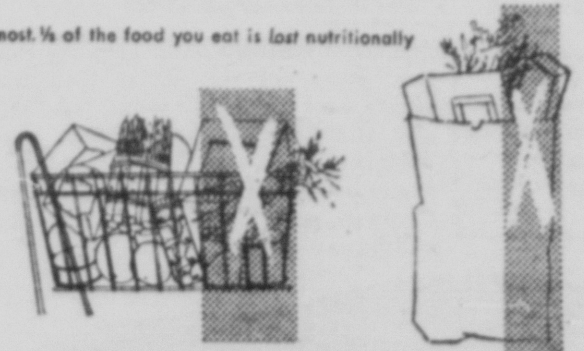

Food authorities say one-third of what children eat today is "empty energy" foods... foods "empty" of vital protein, vitamins and minerals found in the great protective foods... like energy-packed Sunbeam Bread.

Sunbeam Bread, in addition to giving your children energy, also provides nutrition. That's only one reason why Sunbeam Energy is so good. You see... most "quick energy" foods are burned up in a few moments... then your children suffer a letdown. With Sunbeam Bread they enjoy the kind of energy that lasts.

Give them Sunbeam Bread every meal, every day. Sunbeam, packed with essential food elements, is the right kind of energy food. It's the right kind of bread. Reach for a fresh, delicious loaf of energy-packed Sunbeam today.

"Empty" Energy foods make up 32% of America's food consumption

Almost 1/3 of the food you eat is lost nutritionally

That's right, 32% of the foods you are eating now provide none of the vital minerals and vitamins. That means you are asking 68% of your foods to do a 100% job of nutrition.

By substituting Sunbeam Bread for some of these empty energy foods, you would enjoy just as much energy, but would get more of the nutritional basics you need every day at the same time.

S. A. Canteen Service Ends In Boroughs

THE SALVATION Army's emergency canteen service which has been in operation since Saturday of the flood will make its final rounds today in the flats of the twin boroughs after being on duty in round the clock stops.

The big red mobile units have been a familiar sight to tired, dirty, hungry residents, who have toiled long hard hours in an effort to get back to normal living. The canteens have made regular runs serving both cold and hot drinks, soups, sandwiches, doughnuts, cookies and water that had been called "the best in town." The water had been trucked into town from Philadelphia from a Valley Forge distilled water company.

Thousands of man hours of service were given by Salvation Army officers and workers with as high as 25 commissioned officer personnel working during the height of the disaster. Sr. Capt. Donald Lance, officer in charge of Salvation Army work in Shamokin, was one of the first to arrive on the scene followed by Sr. Capt. H. G. Baker of Lewistown and Sr. Capt. Raymond Raines of Hazleton.

Expresses Appreciation

Sr. Capt. Charles Baker, officer in charge of the work in Monroe County was spending his annual furlough in New England at the time of the disaster and due to traveling conditions could not get into town until Sunday afternoon. Major May Adam, former officer in East Stroudsburg, spending part of her vacation in town at the time of the flood, assisted in emergency service rendered by the local corps. The station wagon was put to immediate service manned by Edward Rineheimer.

The officers who have been on canteen duty expressed their appreciation and thanks to all who have contributed money, food and service to help make this task easier and for the splendid cooperation of the women of the Methodist Church food center where supplies for the canteens were prepared.

The decision for ceasing operations of the canteens was reached after a survey team of top Salvation Army officials had toured the area and conferred on the advisability of continuing this service. It was noted that the immediate disaster was ended and that sufficient supplies of food, clothing, cleaning materials and furniture would be available to meet future needs at the permanent Salvation Army office in East Stroudsburg.

Relief Center

A flood relief center has been set up at 24 Broad St., in Prospect House where distribution of supplies will be made daily. Tons of food and clothing have been donated from all parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina and Michigan.

A spokesman for the group operating the canteens said that the cooperation and help of the officials of the boroughs churches, Civil Defense and other agencies has been excellent, and had made the operation of the canteens possible.

Capt. Charles Baker, local commanding officer will continue to operate the station wagon as a canteen to meet localized and daily needs as they may arise.

Little Interest In Registration

VOTER registration was non-existent at one place Tuesday night and "very light" at the second.

Commissioners sat at Southern Stroud election house. They got no registrations in the three hours they were there.

At Delaware Water Gap one Republican and three Democrats registered.

Union Starts Fund To Help Flood Victims

A FLOOD disaster fund to assist pocketbook factory workers of Vassar Bag Co., Stroudsburg, is being set up by international officers of the union.

There will be an important meeting for members of Local No. 6 at the CLU Social Club next Tuesday night. International officers will be present and all union members are asked to attend.

A permanent headquarters for disbursement of disaster relief will be established.

Honeymooners File Protest To No-Kissing Rule

STOCKTON, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP)—A honeymooning couple today challenged Mayor Chester Errico's advice against "unnecessary kissing" in this flood stricken Delaware Valley town.

The mayor included the go-easy-on kissing rule among suggestions he said were designed to protect health while the community recovered from the flood.

But Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens Jr. of Center Bridge, honeymooning at a local inn, told the mayor kissing springs from a normal impulse in persons of opposite sex.

"The stifling of this impulse would not improve marital relations and could even be detrimental to the health," they said.

Temple Israel Groups Donate $500 To Fund

THE EXECUTIVE boards of Temple Israel brotherhood, sisterhood and B'nai B'rith held a combined meeting at the vestry room of Temple Israel on Tuesday night to ascertain what funds could be made available to the Red Cross.

In view of the urgent needs it was decided that $500 be donated to the disaster fund of the Red Cross immediately to help victims of the flood in this emergency.

Benjamin Howitt, president of the brotherhood asked Dr. Seymour Pollen, treasurer of the Brotherhood and chairman of the local B'nai B'rith lodge to give the check to the proper officials in charge of fund raising for the Red Cross.

At the meeting a committee was appointed to investigate what further measures could be taken by the organizations to help victims of the catastrophe. The committee is headed by William Brown and

J. J. NEWBERRY CO. — STROUDSBURG — OPEN FRIDAY NIGHT

Big Three Ministers In Session

By John Scall
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers will meet for two days in New York Sept. 27 to chart the joint strategy that will guide them during later talks with Russia's V. M. Molotov.

Secretary of State Dulles is reported ready to insist that British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay agree to press the Soviets hard for specific concessions in Europe.

The State Department, in announcing the Western strategy conference, said today that West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano would join the meeting Sept. 28, undoubtedly to discuss German unity problems which are certain to figure prominently in talks with Russia.

Oct. 27 Meeting

The Big Four foreign policy chiefs, acting under instructions from their heads of government, are to meet in Geneva Oct. 27 to try to translate into agreements with friendlier East-West relations flowing from the recent summit meeting.

Dulles is known to regard the meeting with Molotov as a critical test of whether Russia will follow up with deeds its professed desire to live in peace with its Western neighbors.

Key topics also are possible East-West security arrangements, more exchanges of cultural visits and the West's demand that Russia relax its grip on its Balkan satellite empire.

A team of lesser American, British and French diplomats began secret conferences at the State Department last week in preparation for the New York conference.

Matters Of Interest

The State Department said only that "matters of common interest," including the forthcoming Geneva meeting with Russia, would be discussed at New York. It described the meeting as part of the consultation under way between the three Allies as well as other North Atlantic pact nations.

The German phase of the New York meeting, officials said, can be greatly influenced by whatever Russia offers for Germany's future when Chancellor Konrad Adenauer visits Moscow Sept. 9.

The Soviets are expected to offer some concessions to Adenauer in an effort to split him from the Western Allies. But State Department officials doubt Russia will give up East Germany and agree to nationwide elections.

On a long-range basis, Dulles is reported fairly optimistic over the west's chance of forcing Russia into some kind of diplomatic agreement which would ease Moscow's iron hold on East Germany.

Dulles and other key Eisenhower administration leaders, it is expected, will urge continued Western pressure on the Russians for concessions in Europe. The secretary is known to be somewhat concerned over what is believed to be a British and French tendency to relax such pressure now that the Soviets are behaving in more friendly fashion.

Atlantic City Electric Co. Gives $1,000 To Drive Here

A CHECK FOR $1,000 from Atlantic City Electric Co., Atlantic City, N. J., was presented yesterday to Charles Bensinger, chairman of Monroe County chapter, American Red Cross, for use in flood relief. The presentation was made on behalf of the New Jersey utility company by Paul E. McBride, PP&L's Stroudsburg district manager in the local Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. office.

The Stroudsburg area was chosen to receive the donation because of the severity of the recent flood and the very extensive damage which resulted.

The flood relief donation from one of the nation's leading resort areas to another was approved by the board of directors of Atlantic City Electric Co. at its August meeting. The check was turned over to Charles E. Oakes, PP&L president, late last week by B. L. England, president of the Atlantic City Electric Co. In accepting the check, "on behalf of my fellow Pennsylvanians," Mr. Oakes said:

"The electric industry has a long outstanding record of services to the American public. I can think of no finer evidence than this action of yours in fulfilling, in the best tradition, the high standards which the electric industry has set for itself in meeting its public responsibility."

$10,000,000 Loss Suffered By Railroad

THE RECENT flood caused damage estimated at $10,000,000 to Lackawanna property between Delaware Water Gap and Scranton, a DL&W spokesman revealed yesterday.

The spokesman said no help can be expected from any state or Federal agency.

Among the damage was the washout of the all-important Bell's Bridge at Minisink Hills, he said.

The price of Indiana farm land has reached an all time high—an average of about $190 an acre compared to about $179 a year ago, says a Purdue University economist, J. H. Atkinson.

Relief Activities Reviewed By Red Cross Area Director

DANIEL BACHMAN, area director for Red Cross disaster relief in Monroe County, was the speaker at the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday afternoon. He was presented by Russell Harmon, disaster chairman of the Monroe County chapter.

The speaker told of the three hundreds of volunteers who have assisted in the cleanup work. Mr. Bachman explained the registration forms informing the chapter of the needs of the sufferers from the flood. The speaker told how the case workers operated to ascertain the needs of the flood victims. If a person in need of clothing fails to find these needs in the centers, he or she is given orders to secure same from a dealer.

Food Orders
Food orders are also distributed to families caring for the homeless. All these will represent a considerable sum, he said. From present indications, he said, medical costs would be low.

Rehabilitation, he pictured as a big job that may take considerable time to carry out. This covers a wide territory including repairs to buildings damaged by the flood waters.

tion, he said, is approving loans at 3 per cent interest to home owners and businessmen. Its importance to small businesses, particularly, was pointed out.

Bachman said donations made by the Red Cross are gifts and need not be repaid.

Needs, Capabilities
The speaker devoted some time explaining how assistance is given by the Red Cross in which he outlined the investigation and study made by the case worker of every case referred to them. This takes some time, he pointed out. In this connection a careful study is made as to what each family can do to help themselves.

In order to get the facts, the applicant for assistance makes out a form showing the needs, his own capabilities and the case worker makes recommendations as to what shall be given and cost of same. In the event there is difference of opinion between the parties, the case is withdrawn and reconsidered later.

Damage to homes is referred to a contractor who investigates and on completion a dispersing order is issued for payment.

The U. S. Army audits the Red Cross accounts. The speaker declared the agency is stocked to the limit with food and clothing.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I've always known that we have clean, neat towns, but they never looked cleaner or neater than they did yesterday afternoon when I returned from my first trip—on foot—through the flooded area.

Up town is like stepping into another world, entirely, inhabited by a different race of people with unnaturally clean shoes and trim clothes.

Third Street for instance, somehow recalls a street of 50 years ago—sidewalks and pavement still hidden from sight under the mud and debris—the houses opened wide and all the household paraphernalia spread out wherever it could be—and the trees looking larger and greener and cleaner, somehow, than life.

But don't think they aren't making progress down there. The amount of work they've accomplished in these hectic days is incredible. But everyone of them seemed to work with a better heart with the crew of Menomites in there to lend a helping hand yesterday afternoon.

Even Hercules, cleaning the Aegian Stables, must have felt discouraged when he saw the extent of the task and knew it was up to him, all alone.

Well, if we can't find the will power to get down in the dirt to help, we might at least tackle some nice clean work—like serving at the feeding station. And they need us, too.

Small Gifts Loom Large When Given From The Heart

A Red Cross armband is like a password, admitting its wearer not only to heartbreak tales of human suffering and loss but also to heartening indications of human generosity and sacrifice, volunteers have discovered.

Two such stories have recently come to light. While the gifts they represent are not large in view of the big gifts of other individuals, they represent, sometimes, even more of a sacrifice.

In one case, it was an elderly man who stopped a volunteer to give her a gift of $15 for the Red Cross and to wish humbly that he could help more actively. A pensioner, the money itself represented many things that he would have to go without. Throughout the emergency he had not only cared for his own invalid wife but also the elderly invalids next door. He had kept them supplied with fresh drinking water at the cost of laborious trips over town to the water stations, done the marketing and helped with the cooking when no facilities were available.

The second story concerns two children, Susie Stevens, 7, and Eddie Stevens, 3 and a half. Knowing that their neighbor was working in the Red Cross clothing center, they both went through their cherished toys and picked out a collection that they thought young flood victims might enjoy.

Susie had chosen one of her nicest dolls, together with a suit case full of doll clothes, a pocketbook with a dime in it, and then, because she was a girl, a barrette for a little girl's hair, and a fresh handkerchief for her pocketbook. Eddie contributed his favorite cowboy hat, an airplane and some trucks.

Flood Sagas Patch Together Crazy Quilt Of Happenings

By Bobby Westbrook

"It's like walking into a Crazy House at an amusement park" was the graphic way young Susan Harlacher described the sensation when they went into their summer home, which used to be on the Delaware at Minisink Hills and Crossdale's fields in Delaware Water Gap. "It makes you dizzy."

A lot of people have the "crazy house" feeling these days as the big shock of the disaster subsides enough to let them take in some of the unbelievable details.

The Harlacher home, for instance, had vanished together with all its contents when Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Harlacher returned to the site along the Delaware, when the flood waters went down. They could find sections of their neighbor's homes, the Masters' and the Taylors' all tangled together, the Rockefeller's refrigerator on an island in the Brodheads, the Kitchens' battered but still recognizable. The only trace of their home, however, was the bunk house which had been washed back by the Mellick home.

House Moves To Water Gap

The house was later discovered down at Water Gap, intact except for one bathroom wall which had been torn away. The clothes were still on the hangers in the closet, the checkbooks and papers still in the desk—but everything covered with mud and mildewing on the bank. It apparently had bubbled like a cork in the flood through the trees and over the intervening land till it came ashore in its present location.

The Foster Minnich summer home which stood nearby was knocked somewhat from its foundations, but remained intact. The Minnich's spent the night on high ground at Camp Wyomissing and when they finally found their way to Stroudsburg discovered that their winter home had also sustained serious flood damage from the rampaging Pocono Creek in the Pocono Park section.

Add to the stories of wandering houses, the case of the half a house which came to rest in the road near Swiftwater. In the bottom story had been cut away as if by a knife, but the top story, furniture and clothing included, was found straddling the highway.

Top Soil Fill

The flood which took away so much also brought strange gifts. Mrs. Zaza Smith, 5 Day Street, East Stroudsburg, was rescued from second floor of her home, returned to find that all of her furniture with the exception of the stationary tubs, a television table without the television set, and a few minor items had been swept away completely. However, a depression near the house which she had always wanted to fill was finally filled in and with a couple of tons of good top soil at that, and a toilet was hanging from the branches of a tree by the house.

The Clement Weidmeyer who had been renting a cottage for the summer at the river had several baskets of cancelled checks and papers retrieved from below the Portland bridge.

A. M. Price whose garage was swept clear by the main current of the Brodheads flowing through it found a coin purse full of pennies in the silk mill lot though the roll top desk in which he had kept it was completely gone, together with all its records of scores of years of business there.

Bangor—Miss Arlene Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arling Parsons of Pen Argyl, and John Newton Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edgar Helms, of Columbia, S. C., were married on August 27 at 2 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Pen Argyl by Rev. C. J. Shimer.

Volunteers Needed At Food Center

Volunteers are needed for the Red Cross Hot Meal Center at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church for serving, preparation of food, and cleaning up.

The food center has been serving about 800 meals a day to flood victims and volunteer disaster workers throughout the emergency, and will continue to do so until the people are able to move into homes of their own where they can provide their own meals.

A loyal group of volunteers have been serving at the center, but many of them are now being called back to their jobs and others need a respite from their steady round of service.

Anyone wishing to volunteer is asked to come to the church and sign up for the hours they will be available. Volunteers are needed for serving breakfast from 6:30 to 10 a.m.; for preparation of food from 9 to 12 a.m.; for serving lunch from 11:45 to 3:45; serving dinner 4:45 to 7:45; or cleaning up from 7 to 9 p.m.

Pohopoko Rebekahs To Meet Sept. 8

Effort—Mrs. Dorothy Birkett, noble grand of the Pohopoko Rebekah Lodge, has requested a large attendance at the meeting to be held on September 8, at the IOOF Hall. Officers will be elected at the meeting.

An ice cream social will be held afterward.

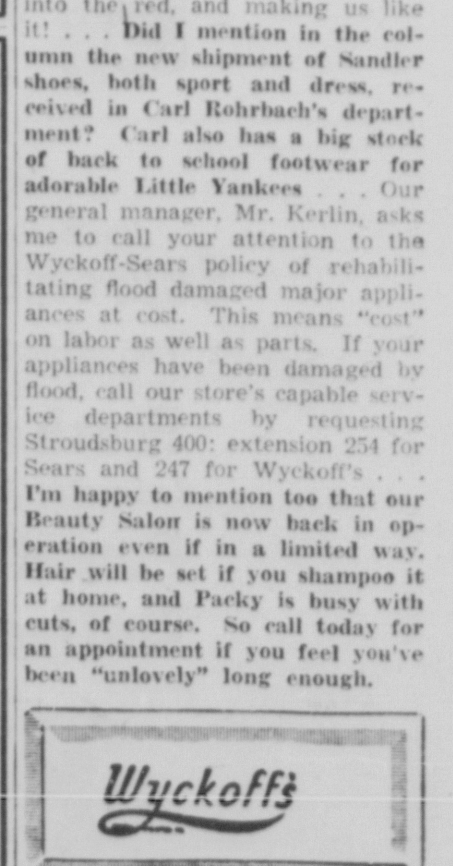

As a child, school never began officially for me until I was the proud possessor of a new pencil box and book bag. I am sure I never actually "wore out" a book bag—but I insisted upon a new one each year. And, out of the dozens of pencil cases I must have owned in my time, only one remains—a wooden box with two drawers and a coating of red paint that has worn thin in spots through the years.

A feeling of nostalgia swept over me yesterday as I stopped in the stationery department to look over the big array of these essentials stocked by Florence Predmore. Book bags today are lovelier than those we carried, and just as practical. There are bags of corduroy in red, blue or green; in colorful tartan plaid fabrics, and in gabardine, leather, and just plain cardboard. Many of them are water repellent. Prices range from 1.98 to 3.95, the latter being a leather in the more sedate brief-case style. Some book bags follow fads too—as does the "Davy Crockett" at 1.98.

Also for the back-to-schooler, we carry a complete line of notebooks, tablets, papers, pencils, pens, pencil sharpeners, rubber bands, and just about everything else you can think of. Some of the notebooks, priced from 1.98 to 4.95, are of leather and close with a zipper. Just another way of putting a bit of zip in the rather reluctant wrench back to the classroom.

Our jewelry department isn't the only one that takes your eye with glitter and color. Our lingerie department does also—with the new brightness of fall appearing in showy nighties, dusters, and other intimate apparel. Now we know what designers mean when they say all the world is color conscious as never before, and that Americans particularly are "color crazy." But isn't it a delightful, exhilarating madness—and doesn't you feel better for it? I'm sure I do. . . . Right now I'm even aware of color on the candy counter as never before. I still don't know how they taste, but those pink and green French nougats, packaged in cellophane, look better than a rainbow. Looking at the world through rose colored glasses isn't necessary anymore—the manufacturers are turning our prosaic little orbs into kaleidoscopes of beautiful patterns and unbelievable hues. They are literally AND figuratively lifting us out of the black and plunging us into the red, and making us like it! . . . Did I mention in the column the new shipment of Sandler shoes, both sport and dress, received in Carl Rohrbach's department? Carl also has a big stock of back to school footwear for adorable Little Yankers. . . . Our general manager, Mr. Korlin, asks me to call your attention to the Wyckoff-Sears policy of rehabilitating flood damaged major appliances at cost. This means "cost" on labor as well as parts. If your appliances have been damaged by flood, call our store's capable service departments by requesting Stroudsburg 400; extension 254 for Sears and 247 for Wyckoff's. . . . I'm happy to mention too that our Beauty Salon is now back in operation even if in a limited way. Hair will be set if you shampoo it at home, and Paeky is busy with cuts, of course. So call today for an appointment if you feel you've been "unlovely" long enough.

SPECIAL trains will operate over the Lackawanna Railroad each weekend during the flood emergency for the benefit of New York City area people who wish to spend vacations in the Pocono Mountains.

The trains will run between Hoboken and Blairstown, N. J. At the latter point, passengers will transfer to buses and taxis for the remainder of the trip with stops at Mount Pocono and Cresco.

Arrangements for the special transportation facilities were set up yesterday by the railroad and two resort groups, the Pocono Vacationland Association and the Tops of the Poconos Association.

The first special will operate Saturday, leaving Hoboken at 10:45 a.m. and arriving at Blairstown at 12:15 p.m. The trip by buses and taxis is expected to take an hour to an hour and a half.

The train will leave for Hoboken at 3:30 p.m., arriving at 5:05.

No Train This Sunday

Because of the Labor Day holiday this weekend, the train will not operate on Sunday, but will leave Blairstown at 3:30 p.m. Monday for Hoboken and New York.

During the following weekends and until the railroad restores service into the Poconos, the special train will run each Saturday and Sunday for the convenience of vacationers and others who wish to use the facilities at the regular fare.

Ray Irwin, passenger agent for the Lackawanna, will board the special train at Hoboken and ride to Blairstown.

Arrangements for the special were completed by William Malleon, general manager of Skytop Lodge, and W. H. Dominick, passenger traffic agent for the railroad.

Irwin Shinnen represented the Vacationland Association and Paul Asure the Top of the Poconos group.

COACH JOHN Whitehead has one constant headache these days, as he tries to form a winning grid machine during his first season at the helm of the Stroudsburg High squad. First, John was stymied by the recent flood and missed almost two weeks of practice. Secondly, he was deprived of a home field and thirdly the former East Stroudsburg State Teachers College star lost the services of Gary Guthrie with a broken collarbone.

Guthrie's injury during a recent practice leaves Whitehead with only one fullback at the present time, Roger Lane, who will probably open the season at the fullback post, is currently recovering from surgery. Roger had a cyst removed from his spine recently. Right now Whitehead has only freshman Bill Bolich to run out of the fullback post in practice sessions. Lane is expected to return to practice sometime next week.

It's tough enough during the first year at the helm of a football squad, but Whitehead has run into triple trouble thus far in the training grind. Guthrie's injury will force the young mentor to change his plans and revamp his backfield. The former Penn Argyt grinder was injured during a routine blocking drill at East Stroudsburg Junior High School. Whitehead is certainly in the running for the title of "hard luck coach of the year."

Jack Mullins, who did such a brilliant job as president of the Stroudsburg Little League during the past season, will celebrate his 22nd wedding anniversary today. Bill Marks who quarterbacked the Whitehall grid machine last season, and Dave Way, who ran wild from the fullback post, are back for another season with the Zephyrs. Catasauqua will find it mighty tough to replace the brilliant Mike Dulick at quarterback. The three-letter athletic graduated last June.

Statington will have to travel without the great Maurice Schiechler and the highly regarded Jack Folliweiler. Their shoes may be a little large for some of the young Slayers. Work will reportedly begin on Gordon Giffels' field in the very near future. Stroudsburg officials are still hopeful of repairing flood damage to such an extent that the Mountaineers will be able to play their home games at the W. Main St. field.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will tangle with Ithaca College in both football and soccer again this year. The Warriors will assist Ithaca in opening its grid campaign on Saturday, October 1, up on Normal Hill. The soccer match between the two schools will be played at Ithaca on Wednesday, October 12. Dick Campeotta, former Stroudsburg High football star, is scheduled to report for grid practice at Kutztown State Teachers College today.

Campeotta, who played guard in high school, won honorable mention on the Pennsylvania State Teachers College All-Star team as a center last season. Dick will be starting his sophomore year at Kutztown. He is also second string catcher on the baseball squad. Frank Radler, former manager of the Stroudsburg Poconos and now pilot of the Strouds, is one of the many people in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg searching for homes. Frank and his family lost everything to the flood waters that washed out their home on 2nd St.

The junior high football squads in both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg won't open practice until the 1955-1956 season gets underway. A large turnout is expected for the East Stroudsburg Midget Football League meeting at Lloyd's Sporting Goods Store tonight. The possibility of obtaining an electric scoreboard for Giffels' field was lessened to a great degree by the flood which ran over this area recently. How will the new coaching assignments be divided at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College during the coming school year?

If the Red Sox are still in contention when Saturday and Sunday, September 17 and 18 roll around, Monroe County will be represented at Yankee Stadium on these dates. If the Sox are still alive by the time this series, which opens Friday night, September 16, occurs, the pennant could be at stake in the three-day activity. The flood hasn't dimmed the football picture in East Stroudsburg one bit, although the gates are bound to be smaller this season than under normal conditions.

East Stroudsburg Grid Machine Building Line

Two Cavaliers Join Early Injured Ranks

EAST Stroudsburg High School's football success this season will depend upon the manner in which its line shapes up in the next two weeks, Jack Kist indicated following a recent practice session at Memorial Stadium.

Kist and his assistants are trying desperately to fill gaps in the forward wall left by last June's graduation.

Danny Marvin, an end for the past two seasons, has been moved in to fill one of the tackle berths, while Ed Yakenechek, Portland Junior, is currently operating at the other tackle spot with Dave Brands, a 215-pounder.

The guard spots will feature John Shaffer and Roger Strouse, both lettermen last season, backed up by Bruce Pipher and Jim Brimer. Brimer may also see duty as a center if a troublesome back injury which has hampered Dick Wolfslayer for the past year doesn't take a turn for the better.

Wolfslayer had been billed by Kist to share the center spot with Bill Strunk.

The end slots are being manned at the present time by co-captain Jim Kimler and John Bach, both regulars last year, although Elwood Mosteller is beginning to make a move for a regular position.

East Stroudsburg held its first scrimmage of the season on Tuesday with the running of his backs. This group includes Dick Gray, Frank Lupin, co-captain Gene Plaza and Doug Dailey, all holdovers from the 1954 campaign.

Bill Loder, back on the squad after a year's lapse, and Harry Miller, a transfer from Stroudsburg, have also impressed with their running ability in early drills.

Charley Lupin, Ronnie VanWhy and Evan Reese are the freshmen backs who have made the East Stroudsburg coaching staff lift its eyebrows in surprise thus far in the training grind.

Ralph Carter, little scabbard who is expected to see plenty of action during the coming campaign, became the first casualty among the Cavaliers when he suffered a bruised shoulder. Carter is currently carrying the arm in a sling.

Kist announced last night that his starting backfield against Slaton on Friday night, September 16, will average 142 pounds, while the line will tip the beam between 163 and 170.

"We're a little behind schedule at the present time, but we are in good shape and should be back where we belong soon, barring injuries of course," Kist announced.

The Cavaliers face a schedule of nine games during the present campaign.

Leader Signs Boxing Code Into Law

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 31 (AP)—The way was cleared today for the return of professional boxing to Pennsylvania with the lifting of a 114-day ban and Gov. George M. Leader's signing into law of a new code to regulate the sport in the state.

Right after Leader signed the new law with a promise that it will benefit "the boxing fan as well as the fighters," Alfred M. Klein, of the state Athletic Commission indicated the first professional bout would be held in the state before the end of September.

"We now have a good law, a law that has two-fold benefits—benefits to the fight fans and to the men who wage the fights," Leader said. Some 50 state officials and interested spectators witnessed the signing in the governor's reception room to signal what Leader described as "the beginning of an era of honest—not fixed boxing—in the state."

The governor suspended all professional bouts in Pennsylvania for 90 days on May 10 as the aftermath of a nationally televised bout in Philadelphia days before. Just before the suspension was to expire, Leader extended it indefinitely because his proposed new code "to really clean up the sport," still was pending in the Legislature. Although sounding high praises for the commission and members of the attorney general's bill writing staff on a "fine job of drafting a new code," Leader said time might show some weaknesses in the new law.

Weighted Body Of Negro Boy Found In River; Had Made 'Ugly Remarks' To White Woman

GREENWOOD, Miss., Aug. 31 (AP)—The weighted body of a 14-year-old Negro boy, kidnapped three days ago because he made "ugly remarks" to a white woman, was pulled from the Tallahatchie River today.

Ethmitt Louis Till, Chicago boy visiting his uncle at nearby Money, died of a bullet wound above the right ear.

Sheriff George Smith of Leflore County said two white men allegedly charged with kidnapping, would be charged with murder. They are Roy Bryant, Money storekeeper, and his half-brother, J. W. Milam of Glendora.

Sheriff Smith said Bryant admitted taking the boy from his uncle's home but said Till was released unharmed.

Till's mother, Mrs. Mamie Bradley of Chicago, sobbed: "Someone is going to pay for this. The entire State of Mississippi is going to pay for this."

"Didn't Do Anything"

"I can't think; I just can't think. I'm frozen."

"He didn't do anything to deserve that."

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said Till's death looks like a lynching and demanded vigorous prosecution.

Till was visiting his uncle, tenant farmer Mose Wright, when he was kidnapped Sunday morning. A deputy sheriff said Till "must have been killed Sunday, shortly after the kidnapping."

Till was buried this afternoon at Money. His body was in "such bad shape it couldn't be shipped" to Chicago for burial, a funeral home attendant said.

The youth allegedly made "ugly remarks" to Mrs. Bryant, the storekeeper's wife, last week. He was kidnapped early Sunday.

A teen-aged boy, fishing in the Tallahatchie River spotted Till's body caught in a drift. His feet and legs stuck above the water.

Most Resorts In Operation

FOUR THOUSAND copies of "This Week in the Poconos" were mailed out over the weekend, according to Harold Swenson, executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

The 24-page resort guide was sent to travel agencies, motor clubs, chambers of commerce and to persons who had inquired recently about spending their vacations in the Poconos.

Most of the copies went to points in New York, New Jersey, Western Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia area.

The current edition points out that 95 per cent of the Pocono resorts are operating normally. Except for highways, bridges and railroad right-of-way, it adds, physical damage by the recent storm and flood was relatively light among the resorts.

Flood Repair Estimate Is Sealed Down

By Wilnot Hercher
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (P)—Federal authorities sealed down the repair bill for the northeastern flood states today after a new look at the destruction there.

"Thank heaven, the extent of damage is not going to be as great as the first estimates," reported Val Peterson, Civil Defense administrator and coordinator of the federal rehabilitation program.

Peterson added that he couldn't say now just how much the damage would amount to in dollars and cents. The Army Engineers Corps, in a preliminary estimate, had put the figure at $1,600,000,000 or more.

Costly Damages

"Many cities suffered tremendous blows," Peterson said, "but the estimates of damage and the federal, state and local money needed to repair the damage have been high."

Representatives of 10 federal agencies met at the White House today to take stock of the situation in six northeastern states. They agreed that a gigantic relief and restoration job remains to be done. "We will put into the cleanup program whatever number of dollars is required," Peterson said. "You just can't put a price tag on it."

He reported that no news programs were discussed at the White House session but the federal authorities "effected all the coordination necessary and decided to keep pushing until the job is done."

Requested By President

The conference lasted for two hours. It was set up by the White House staff at the request of President Eisenhower, who is spending a working vacation in Colorado.

Various sources have estimated the federal government's share of the rehabilitation program at upwards of 100 million dollars. In addition to this, the government has made about 900 million dollars available to defense industries in the flood area who want to borrow money to rebuild.

Peterson, who has toured the Northeast on foot and by helicopter, said the housing problem is still critical and the government is reviewing its relief measures to see if any people "have been overlooked."

Although the general situation is not as bad as was feared at first, Peterson said, it is impossible to overestimate the damage done to such towns as Winsted and Putnam in Connecticut. He added that out of 200 businesses in Winsted 170 were wiped out completely.

Praises Agencies

Every governor and mayor he has talked with, the Civil Defense chief said, has responded "enthusiastically, promptly and effectively" to the emergency. He had similar praise for federal agencies which have been helping supply food, shelter, public health facilities and loans for the thousands of flood victims.

In Southbridge, Mass., Peterson said, six or eight generators were furnished from a Civil Defense stockpile to restore operations in one factory and put several hundred people back to work.

As another case of using federal equipment instead of cash, he cited federal machinery loaned to an Ansonia, Conn., defense plant which would have had to wait four months to get its old equipment repaired.

Peterson said the Army engineers are doing a grand job of repairing public facilities. They are at work in 75 communities and employing 4,113 persons, mostly flood area residents, on 197 contract jobs.

Road Funds Available

He mentioned the possibility of an eight-million-dollar defense production loan to the New Haven Railroad to rebuild a section of its track in the Naugatuck Valley.

The Public Roads Bureau is working closely with state highway departments and has 10 million dollars available for emergency repair jobs.

Driver Admits His Deficiencies

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (P)—George K. Gulyas gave a frank explanation in court today why his car collided with a milk truck here last week.

"Well, you see, judge, I have only one good eye—no vision in my right—and besides, I'm not a good driver anyway," said Gulyas, 43, of Norwalk, Conn.

After making sure he heard right, Magistrate Samuel J. Ohlinger fined Gulyas $10 and directed that Connecticut officials be asked to give him new driving fitness tests.

Democrats Attack Ike Farm Policies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (P)—Claude Wickard, former secretary of agriculture, today was named to head a Democratic Agricultural Advisory Committee expected to spearhead a 1956 attack on Eisenhower administration farm policies.

Announcing Wickard's appointment, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said the group will organize at a Sept. 19 meeting in Chicago to begin a "re-examination of Democratic policies in all phases of agricultural problems."

Butler said that Charles Brannan, also a former secretary of agriculture, will be a member of the group which will be limited to those who have active farming interests. Wickard now farms more than 600 acres near Camden, Ind.

The Democratic move toward action on the farm issue coincided with an Agriculture Department report that farm prices had dropped 2 per cent in the month from mid-July to mid-August.

Men Rescue Ailing Woman

BUSHKILL — The story of an heroic rescue in this region was told yesterday by the family of Mrs. Clara Beardsley, an elderly woman who was moved out of her flood-hit home in a wheel chair.

Mrs. Beardsley was residing with her daughter, Mrs. Emma Stoddard near the Catholic Church here when waters of the Bushkill Creek drove into the Stoddard home.

The family said men came to their rescue, first an automobile and then by wading. In the group who aided the family to move were:

Wallie Drunbar, Claude Metzgar, James Meyers, Bill Laubner, Bob Vandercar and Luby Lee.

Edward Bond Injured In Motor Crash

AN ELDERLY Kunkletown motorist suffered possible rib fractures and a dislocated shoulder when he was involved in a two-car collision in Gilbert late Tuesday night.

Fern Ridge State Police said Edward Bond, 74, of Kunkletown RD 2, was treated in the office of Dr. Thomas Williams of Gilbert, after his car crashed into that of Forrest Heller, 17, of Scota.

State police said Bond was traveling east on Route 209 near the Weir Lake intersection when he made a left turn in front of Heller's auto, traveling west on Route 209.

Damage to both vehicles was extensive, troopers said. Heller apparently escaped injury.

Hewlett, L. I. Firemen Arrive Here With Gifts

FIREMEN FROM HEWLETT, Long Island answered an alarm in East Stroudsburg yesterday.

Instead of fighting fire, the volunteers arrived in East Stroudsburg with equipment to fight damages caused by the Aug. 18-19 flood in that borough.

The firemen brought with them three trucks — two regular fire trucks and a two-ton hauling truck — loaded with equipment needed for cleaning up the borough.

All the supplies were gifts from the residents of Hewlett, a fire company spokesman said. With the loaded trucks came 20 firemen from the Hewlett company.

Brooms and Baby Carriages Stacked on top of the first fire truck—a 750 gallon tanker—were piles of canned goods, pillows and clothing. The second fire truck was loaded with shoes, sheets, pillow cases and bedding.

In the third truck bundles of mops and brooms were piled high. There were jugs, cans and cartons of disinfectant; more bundles of clean, new clothing.

Most interesting—and, perhaps most useful in the long run—of the articles included was a batch of baby carriages. The carriages were brought in to replace any lost in the flood, a Hewlett fireman said.

A sign on the side of the third truck proclaimed in large letters: "Flood Relief for East Stroudsburg from Hewlett, L. I." Firemen said that included not only the company itself, but all the citizens of the town. The shipment of supplies was accepted "with deep thanks" by Acme Hose Co. firemen.

Reciprocal Rescue

BRIERLEY HILL, England, Aug. 31 (P)—Bill Read rushed out to the canal back of his house yesterday and rescued 2-year-old Terry Quigley from drowning.
